

ITALIANS ARRANGE
A RELIEF BENEFIT

Help of Local Theater Managers Is Enlisted.

MASS MEETING IS CROWDED

Concert Will Be Held Next Sunday Night, and $7,000 Is Expected from the Performance—$500 Will Be Sent to Sicily To-day, and Subscriptions Are Coming in Rapidly.

With eyes across the sea and with a poignant interest which those not of the blood do not know, the Italians of Washington took the first steps yesterday toward organizing their share in the relief work for desolated Sicily.

A mass meeting was held in Trades Union Hall, 610 G street northwest, under the direction of sixty-five of the more prosperous Italians, who discussed what means lay within their power to help. All are keenly conscious of the colossal need.

Long before the hour of meeting Italians began to gather in front of the hall, and when the appointed hour had arrived the street was blocked with "sunny sons."

The meeting was called by the Comitato Columbianum, a society combining the eight Italian societies of Washington. On the platform were seated the presidents and secretaries of the various societies, representing some of the most prominent wholesale merchants in the city.

Embassy Represented.
The meeting was called to order by Pietro Rodice, vice president of the Comitato Columbianum, surrounded by a number of the leading Italians of the city, including representatives from the embassy.

H. Pier Giavina, general secretary of the society, then explained why the meeting had been called.

Prof. Collo, of the local branch of the American Federation of Musicians, then made a short speech, in which he said the local branch would offer its services at a benefit concert, and would heartily render its aid at any other performance which might be under contemplation.

It was then decided to postpone a concert which was to have been given on January 25 by the society, and that instead the proceeds from the tickets be donated to the Italian Red Cross society.

A committee was then appointed to solicit subscriptions from the colony for the sufferers in Sicily. The committee will be divided and will visit every Italian quarter in the four parts of Washington.

A committee was also appointed to make arrangements for the use of one of the local theaters next Sunday, when the concert will be held. This committee will confer with Manager Rapley, of the New National Theater, to-day, and unless something else is looked for that night it is probable this house will be used.

What Theater Managers Say.
A number of the local managers were seen last evening, and each said he would place his house at the Italians' disposal if he was called upon.

"I am perfectly willing to offer the New National, to be used in any way which may seem fit to the society," said Manager William H. Rapley last evening. "It is a good cause, and I am heartily in favor of any steps which will aid it."

Manager Berger, of the Columbia Theater, said:

"I will place the Columbia Theater at the disposal of the Italians if I am called upon. The theater is in use every Sunday evening, but I would gladly turn it over to them in the afternoon, if they so desire, and, furthermore, if I can in any way assist in furnishing talent I will gladly do so, if possible."

The above statements reveal the sentiment of the theatrical managers, and it is probable the committee will have little difficulty in obtaining a theater.

One of the members of the committee said yesterday the society hoped to realize about $7,000 from the benefit performance.

The Italians are contributing a great deal of money to the cause, and will send $500 to-day to the Italian Red Cross. A collection taken yesterday amounted to $80, and while the meeting was in progress the society of Generale Giuseppe Garibaldi succeeded in raising $200 among its members. It is said the Unione e Fratellanza, which is composed of the wealthiest Italians in the city, will probably contribute $1,000.

Sent Directly to Italy.
The money will not be sent to the American Red Cross Society, but will be forwarded direct to the Italian society, accompanied by a letter of sympathy from the colony in this city.

That the fatalities of Messina have many sons in Washington was proved yesterday, when the fact became known that some of the Sicilians in this city lost relatives in the recent disaster. Seven families left this city last Friday for New York, whence they will take the steamer for Italy, and endeavor to discover the whereabouts of their families. The names of these could not be learned last night.

In the past few days a number of Italian newspapers have written to some of the leading Italians in this city asking that certain Sicilians be located, as they had received word relatives had been lost in the earthquake. Every effort was made to locate these relatives in Washington, but without success, and it was concluded they had left the city upon learning of the disaster.

The next meeting of the Comitato Columbianum will be held Wednesday evening at the Eagles' Hall in E street northwest. This will be open to the entire colony, and it is estimated that the hall will be crowded. At this meeting the tickets will be distributed for the concert, and prices will range from 25 cents to $1 each.

The Italians of the city have greatly appreciated the articles which appear from day to day in their native tongue in The Washington Herald, and they have taken stenographic notes from the articles.

Will Soon Send $100,000.
Within the next few days another large contribution will be sent to the Italian Red Cross through the State Department.

It is probable the next remittance, through Mr. Griscom, American Ambassador at Rome, will be $100,000, or even larger. A total of $170,000 has already been sent to the Italian organization by the American National Red Cross.

Will Remove Populace.
Mr. Griscom, American Ambassador at Rome, sent a cablegram to the State Department yesterday indicating that the Italian Red Cross intends to remove nearly the whole population from the stricken district to other parts of Italy.

Much money, Mr. Griscom said, is urgently needed, and he suggested that the Italian Red Cross be chartered immediately at Marselles and loaded with food and clothing for the victims.

STORY OF MEETING TOLD IN ITALIAN

Help of Local Theater Managers Is Enlisted.

MASS MEETING IS CROWDED

Concert Will Be Held Next Sunday Night, and $7,000 Is Expected from the Performance—$500 Will Be Sent to Sicily To-day, and Subscriptions Are Coming in Rapidly.

With eyes across the sea and with a poignant interest which those not of the blood do not know, the Italians of Washington took the first steps yesterday toward organizing their share in the relief work for desolated Sicily.

A mass meeting was held in Trades Union Hall, 610 G street northwest, under the direction of sixty-five of the more prosperous Italians, who discussed what means lay within their power to help. All are keenly conscious of the colossal need.

Long before the hour of meeting Italians began to gather in front of the hall, and when the appointed hour had arrived the street was blocked with "sunny sons."

The meeting was called by the Comitato Columbianum, a society combining the eight Italian societies of Washington. On the platform were seated the presidents and secretaries of the various societies, representing some of the most prominent wholesale merchants in the city.

Embassy Represented.
The meeting was called to order by Pietro Rodice, vice president of the Comitato Columbianum, surrounded by a number of the leading Italians of the city, including representatives from the embassy.

H. Pier Giavina, general secretary of the society, then explained why the meeting had been called.

Prof. Collo, of the local branch of the American Federation of Musicians, then made a short speech, in which he said the local branch would offer its services at a benefit concert, and would heartily render its aid at any other performance which might be under contemplation.

It was then decided to postpone a concert which was to have been given on January 25 by the society, and that instead the proceeds from the tickets be donated to the Italian Red Cross society.

A committee was then appointed to solicit subscriptions from the colony for the sufferers in Sicily. The committee will be divided and will visit every Italian quarter in the four parts of Washington.

A committee was also appointed to make arrangements for the use of one of the local theaters next Sunday, when the concert will be held. This committee will confer with Manager Rapley, of the New National Theater, to-day, and unless something else is looked for that night it is probable this house will be used.

What Theater Managers Say.
A number of the local managers were seen last evening, and each said he would place his house at the Italians' disposal if he was called upon.

"I am perfectly willing to offer the New National, to be used in any way which may seem fit to the society," said Manager William H. Rapley last evening. "It is a good cause, and I am heartily in favor of any steps which will aid it."

Manager Berger, of the Columbia Theater, said:

"I will place the Columbia Theater at the disposal of the Italians if I am called upon. The theater is in use every Sunday evening, but I would gladly turn it over to them in the afternoon, if they so desire, and, furthermore, if I can in any way assist in furnishing talent I will gladly do so, if possible."

The above statements reveal the sentiment of the theatrical managers, and it is probable the committee will have little difficulty in obtaining a theater.

One of the members of the committee said yesterday the society hoped to realize about $7,000 from the benefit performance.

The Italians are contributing a great deal of money to the cause, and will send $500 to-day to the Italian Red Cross. A collection taken yesterday amounted to $80, and while the meeting was in progress the society of Generale Giuseppe Garibaldi succeeded in raising $200 among its members. It is said the Unione e Fratellanza, which is composed of the wealthiest Italians in the city, will probably contribute $1,000.

Sent Directly to Italy.
The money will not be sent to the American Red Cross Society, but will be forwarded direct to the Italian society, accompanied by a letter of sympathy from the colony in this city.

That the fatalities of Messina have many sons in Washington was proved yesterday, when the fact became known that some of the Sicilians in this city lost relatives in the recent disaster. Seven families left this city last Friday for New York, whence they will take the steamer for Italy, and endeavor to discover the whereabouts of their families. The names of these could not be learned last night.

In the past few days a number of Italian newspapers have written to some of the leading Italians in this city asking that certain Sicilians be located, as they had received word relatives had been lost in the earthquake. Every effort was made to locate these relatives in Washington, but without success, and it was concluded they had left the city upon learning of the disaster.

The next meeting of the Comitato Columbianum will be held Wednesday evening at the Eagles' Hall in E street northwest. This will be open to the entire colony, and it is estimated that the hall will be crowded. At this meeting the tickets will be distributed for the concert, and prices will range from 25 cents to $1 each.

The Italians of the city have greatly appreciated the articles which appear from day to day in their native tongue in The Washington Herald, and they have taken stenographic notes from the articles.

Will Soon Send $100,000.
Within the next few days another large contribution will be sent to the Italian Red Cross through the State Department.

It is probable the next remittance, through Mr. Griscom, American Ambassador at Rome, will be $100,000, or even larger. A total of $170,000 has already been sent to the Italian organization by the American National Red Cross.

Will Remove Populace.
Mr. Griscom, American Ambassador at Rome, sent a cablegram to the State Department yesterday indicating that the Italian Red Cross intends to remove nearly the whole population from the stricken district to other parts of Italy.

Much money, Mr. Griscom said, is urgently needed, and he suggested that the Italian Red Cross be chartered immediately at Marselles and loaded with food and clothing for the victims.

OPTIMIST COLUMN
FURTHER SUES THEME

Help of Local Theater Managers Is Enlisted.

MASS MEETING IS CROWDED

Concert Will Be Held Next Sunday Night, and $7,000 Is Expected from the Performance—$500 Will Be Sent to Sicily To-day, and Subscriptions Are Coming in Rapidly.

With eyes across the sea and with a poignant interest which those not of the blood do not know, the Italians of Washington took the first steps yesterday toward organizing their share in the relief work for desolated Sicily.

A mass meeting was held in Trades Union Hall, 610 G street northwest, under the direction of sixty-five of the more prosperous Italians, who discussed what means lay within their power to help. All are keenly conscious of the colossal need.

Long before the hour of meeting Italians began to gather in front of the hall, and when the appointed hour had arrived the street was blocked with "sunny sons."

The meeting was called by the Comitato Columbianum, a society combining the eight Italian societies of Washington. On the platform were seated the presidents and secretaries of the various societies, representing some of the most prominent wholesale merchants in the city.

Embassy Represented.
The meeting was called to order by Pietro Rodice, vice president of the Comitato Columbianum, surrounded by a number of the leading Italians of the city, including representatives from the embassy.

H. Pier Giavina, general secretary of the society, then explained why the meeting had been called.

Prof. Collo, of the local branch of the American Federation of Musicians, then made a short speech, in which he said the local branch would offer its services at a benefit concert, and would heartily render its aid at any other performance which might be under contemplation.

It was then decided to postpone a concert which was to have been given on January 25 by the society, and that instead the proceeds from the tickets be donated to the Italian Red Cross society.

A committee was then appointed to solicit subscriptions from the colony for the sufferers in Sicily. The committee will be divided and will visit every Italian quarter in the four parts of Washington.

A committee was also appointed to make arrangements for the use of one of the local theaters next Sunday, when the concert will be held. This committee will confer with Manager Rapley, of the New National Theater, to-day, and unless something else is looked for that night it is probable this house will be used.

What Theater Managers Say.
A number of the local managers were seen last evening, and each said he would place his house at the Italians' disposal if he was called upon.

"I am perfectly willing to offer the New National, to be used in any way which may seem fit to the society," said Manager William H. Rapley last evening. "It is a good cause, and I am heartily in favor of any steps which will aid it."

Manager Berger, of the Columbia Theater, said:

"I will place the Columbia Theater at the disposal of the Italians if I am called upon. The theater is in use every Sunday evening, but I would gladly turn it over to them in the afternoon, if they so desire, and, furthermore, if I can in any way assist in furnishing talent I will gladly do so, if possible."

The above statements reveal the sentiment of the theatrical managers, and it is probable the committee will have little difficulty in obtaining a theater.

One of the members of the committee said yesterday the society hoped to realize about $7,000 from the benefit performance.

The Italians are contributing a great deal of money to the cause, and will send $500 to-day to the Italian Red Cross. A collection taken yesterday amounted to $80, and while the meeting was in progress the society of Generale Giuseppe Garibaldi succeeded in raising $200 among its members. It is said the Unione e Fratellanza, which is composed of the wealthiest Italians in the city, will probably contribute $1,000.

Sent Directly to Italy.
The money will not be sent to the American Red Cross Society, but will be forwarded direct to the Italian society, accompanied by a letter of sympathy from the colony in this city.

That the fatalities of Messina have many sons in Washington was proved yesterday, when the fact became known that some of the Sicilians in this city lost relatives in the recent disaster. Seven families left this city last Friday for New York, whence they will take the steamer for Italy, and endeavor to discover the whereabouts of their families. The names of these could not be learned last night.

In the past few days a number of Italian newspapers have written to some of the leading Italians in this city asking that certain Sicilians be located, as they had received word relatives had been lost in the earthquake. Every effort was made to locate these relatives in Washington, but without success, and it was concluded they had left the city upon learning of the disaster.

The next meeting of the Comitato Columbianum will be held Wednesday evening at the Eagles' Hall in E street northwest. This will be open to the entire colony, and it is estimated that the hall will be crowded. At this meeting the tickets will be distributed for the concert, and prices will range from 25 cents to $1 each.

The Italians of the city have greatly appreciated the articles which appear from day to day in their native tongue in The Washington Herald, and they have taken stenographic notes from the articles.

Will Soon Send $100,000.
Within the next few days another large contribution will be sent to the Italian Red Cross through the State Department.

It is probable the next remittance, through Mr. Griscom, American Ambassador at Rome, will be $100,000, or even larger. A total of $170,000 has already been sent to the Italian organization by the American National Red Cross.

Will Remove Populace.
Mr. Griscom, American Ambassador at Rome, sent a cablegram to the State Department yesterday indicating that the Italian Red Cross intends to remove nearly the whole population from the stricken district to other parts of Italy.

Much money, Mr. Griscom said, is urgently needed, and he suggested that the Italian Red Cross be chartered immediately at Marselles and loaded with food and clothing for the victims.

GEOLOGIST PROVES
BIBLE MYSTERIES

Help of Local Theater Managers Is Enlisted.

MASS MEETING IS CROWDED

Concert Will Be Held Next Sunday Night, and $7,000 Is Expected from the Performance—$500 Will Be Sent to Sicily To-day, and Subscriptions Are Coming in Rapidly.

With eyes across the sea and with a poignant interest which those not of the blood do not know, the Italians of Washington took the first steps yesterday toward organizing their share in the relief work for desolated Sicily.

A mass meeting was held in Trades Union Hall, 610 G street northwest, under the direction of sixty-five of the more prosperous Italians, who discussed what means lay within their power to help. All are keenly conscious of the colossal need.

Long before the hour of meeting Italians began to gather in front of the hall, and when the appointed hour had arrived the street was blocked with "sunny sons."

The meeting was called by the Comitato Columbianum, a society combining the eight Italian societies of Washington. On the platform were seated the presidents and secretaries of the various societies, representing some of the most prominent wholesale merchants in the city.

Embassy Represented.
The meeting was called to order by Pietro Rodice, vice president of the Comitato Columbianum, surrounded by a number of the leading Italians of the city, including representatives from the embassy.

H. Pier Giavina, general secretary of the society, then explained why the meeting had been called.

Prof. Collo, of the local branch of the American Federation of Musicians, then made a short speech, in which he said the local branch would offer its services at a benefit concert, and would heartily render its aid at any other performance which might be under contemplation.

It was then decided to postpone a concert which was to have been given on January 25 by the society, and that instead the proceeds from the tickets be donated to the Italian Red Cross society.

A committee was then appointed to solicit subscriptions from the colony for the sufferers in Sicily. The committee will be divided and will visit every Italian quarter in the four parts of Washington.

A committee was also appointed to make arrangements for the use of one of the local theaters next Sunday, when the concert will be held. This committee will confer with Manager Rapley, of the New National Theater, to-day, and unless something else is looked for that night it is probable this house will be used.

What Theater Managers Say.
A number of the local managers were seen last evening, and each said he would place his house at the Italians' disposal if he was called upon.

"I am perfectly willing to offer the New National, to be used in any way which may seem fit to the society," said Manager William H. Rapley last evening. "It is a good cause, and I am heartily in favor of any steps which will aid it."

Manager Berger, of the Columbia Theater, said:

"I will place the Columbia Theater at the disposal of the Italians if I am called upon. The theater is in use every Sunday evening, but I would gladly turn it over to them in the afternoon, if they so desire, and, furthermore, if I can in any way assist in furnishing talent I will gladly do so, if possible."

The above statements reveal the sentiment of the theatrical managers, and it is probable the committee will have little difficulty in obtaining a theater.

One of the members of the committee said yesterday the society hoped to realize about $7,000 from the benefit performance.

The Italians are contributing a great deal of money to the cause, and will send $500 to-day to the Italian Red Cross. A collection taken yesterday amounted to $80, and while the meeting was in progress the society of Generale Giuseppe Garibaldi succeeded in raising $200 among its members. It is said the Unione e Fratellanza, which is composed of the wealthiest Italians in the city, will probably contribute $1,000.

Sent Directly to Italy.
The money will not be sent to the American Red Cross Society, but will be forwarded direct to the Italian society, accompanied by a letter of sympathy from the colony in this city.

That the fatalities of Messina have many sons in Washington was proved yesterday, when the fact became known that some of the Sicilians in this city lost relatives in the recent disaster. Seven families left this city last Friday for New York, whence they will take the steamer for Italy, and endeavor to discover the whereabouts of their families. The names of these could not be learned last night.

In the past few days a number of Italian newspapers have written to some of the leading Italians in this city asking that certain Sicilians be located, as they had received word relatives had been lost in the earthquake. Every effort was made to locate these relatives in Washington, but without success, and it was concluded they had left the city upon learning of the disaster.

The next meeting of the Comitato Columbianum will be held Wednesday evening at the Eagles' Hall in E street northwest. This will be open to the entire colony, and it is estimated that the hall will be crowded. At this meeting the tickets will be distributed for the concert, and prices will range from 25 cents to $1 each.

The Italians of the city have greatly appreciated the articles which appear from day to day in their native tongue in The Washington Herald, and they have taken stenographic notes from the articles.

Will Soon Send $100,000.
Within the next few days another large contribution will be sent to the Italian Red Cross through the State Department.

It is probable the next remittance, through Mr. Griscom, American Ambassador at Rome, will be $100,000, or even larger. A total of $170,000 has already been sent to the Italian organization by the American National Red Cross.

Will Remove Populace.
Mr. Griscom, American Ambassador at Rome, sent a cablegram to the State Department yesterday indicating that the Italian Red Cross intends to remove nearly the whole population from the stricken district to other parts of Italy.

Much money, Mr. Griscom said, is urgently needed, and he suggested that the Italian Red Cross be chartered immediately at Marselles and loaded with food and clothing for the victims.

LOT'S WIFE LITERALLY TURNED INTO SALT PILLAR.

Help of Local Theater Managers Is Enlisted.

MASS MEETING IS CROWDED

Concert Will Be Held Next Sunday Night, and $7,000 Is Expected from the Performance—$500 Will Be Sent to Sicily To-day, and Subscriptions Are Coming in Rapidly.

With eyes across the sea and with a poignant interest which those not of the blood do not know, the Italians of Washington took the first steps yesterday toward organizing their share in the relief work for desolated Sicily.

A mass meeting was held in Trades Union Hall, 610 G street northwest, under the direction of sixty-five of the more prosperous Italians, who discussed what means lay within their power to help. All are keenly conscious of the colossal need.

Long before the hour of meeting Italians began to gather in front of the hall, and when the appointed hour had arrived the street was blocked with "sunny sons."

The meeting was called by the Comitato Columbianum, a society combining the eight Italian societies of Washington. On the platform were seated the presidents and secretaries of the various societies, representing some of the most prominent wholesale merchants in the city.

Embassy Represented.
The meeting was called to order by Pietro Rodice, vice president of the Comitato Columbianum, surrounded by a number of the leading Italians of the city, including representatives from the embassy.

H. Pier Giavina, general secretary of the society, then explained why the meeting had been called.

Prof. Collo, of the local branch of the American Federation of Musicians, then made a short speech, in which he said the local branch would offer its services at a benefit concert, and would heartily render its aid at any other performance which might be under contemplation.

It was then decided to postpone a concert which was to have been given on January 25 by the society, and that instead the proceeds from the tickets be donated to the Italian Red Cross society.

A committee was then appointed to solicit subscriptions from the colony for the sufferers in Sicily. The committee will be divided and will visit every Italian quarter in the four parts of Washington.

A committee was also appointed to make arrangements for the use of one of the local theaters next Sunday, when the concert will be held. This committee will confer with Manager Rapley, of the New National Theater, to-day, and unless something else is looked for that night it is probable this house will be used.

What Theater Managers Say.
A number of the local managers were seen last evening, and each said he would place his house at the Italians' disposal if he was called upon.

"I am perfectly willing to offer the New National, to be used in any way which may seem fit to the society," said Manager William H. Rapley last evening. "It is a good cause, and I am heartily in favor of any steps which will aid it."

Manager Berger, of the Columbia Theater, said:

"I will place the Columbia Theater at the disposal of the Italians if I am called upon. The theater is in use every Sunday evening, but I would gladly turn it over to them in the afternoon, if they so desire, and, furthermore, if I can in any way assist in furnishing talent I will gladly do so, if possible."

The above statements reveal the sentiment of the theatrical managers, and it is probable the committee will have little difficulty in obtaining a theater.

One of the members of the committee said yesterday the society hoped to realize about $7,000 from the benefit performance.

The Italians are contributing a great deal of money to the cause, and will send $500 to-day to the Italian Red Cross. A collection taken yesterday amounted to $80, and while the meeting was in progress the society of Generale Giuseppe Garibaldi succeeded in raising $200 among its members. It is said the Unione e Fratellanza, which is composed of the wealthiest Italians in the city, will probably contribute $1,000.

Sent Directly to Italy.
The money will not be sent to the American Red Cross Society, but will be forwarded direct to the Italian society, accompanied by a letter of sympathy from the colony in this city.

That the fatalities of Messina have many sons in Washington was proved yesterday, when the fact became known that some of the Sicilians in this city lost relatives in the recent disaster. Seven families left this city last Friday for New York, whence they will take the steamer for Italy, and endeavor to discover the whereabouts of their families. The names of these could not be learned last night.

In the past few days a number of Italian newspapers have written to some of the leading Italians in this city asking that certain Sicilians be located, as they had received word relatives had been lost in the earthquake. Every effort was made to locate these relatives in Washington, but without success, and it was concluded they had left the city upon learning of the disaster.

The next meeting of the Comitato Columbianum will be held Wednesday evening at the Eagles' Hall in E street northwest. This will be open to the entire colony, and it is estimated that the hall will be crowded. At this meeting the tickets will be distributed for the concert, and prices will range from 25 cents to $1 each.

The Italians of the city have greatly appreciated the articles which appear from day to day in their native tongue in The Washington Herald, and they have taken stenographic notes from the articles.

Will Soon Send $100,000.
Within the next few days another large contribution will be sent to the Italian Red Cross through the State Department.

It is probable the next remittance, through Mr. Griscom, American Ambassador at Rome, will be $100,000, or even larger. A total of $170,000 has already been sent to the Italian organization by the American National Red Cross.

Will Remove Populace.
Mr. Griscom, American Ambassador at Rome, sent a cablegram to the State Department yesterday indicating that the Italian Red Cross intends to remove nearly the whole population from the stricken district to other parts of Italy.

Much money, Mr. Griscom said, is urgently needed, and he suggested that the Italian Red Cross be chartered immediately at Marselles and loaded with food and clothing for the victims.

TO-LAY

Last of the Furs to be sold to-day, at great and final reductions in prices.

ALL NEW FIRS

Not a piece is ever carried from one season to another.

The ending here of by far the greatest Fur Season of a quarter century is to be associated with reductions in prices that bring you Furriers' best furs at about half furriers' quotations.

Black Caracal Sets, only two of them. Reduced from $15 to $17.
One Mink Set, comprising neck piece with heads and tails, and muffs with tails. Reduced from $25.50 to $25.
One Mink Scarf. Reduced from $15 to $10, from $10 to $15.50.
Set. Reduced from $15 to $10.

One 56-inch Electric Seal Coat. Reduced from $25 to only $15.
One Mink Set, comprising neck piece with heads and tails, and muffs with tails. Reduced from $25.50 to $25.
One Mink Scarf. Reduced from $15 to $10, from $10 to $15.50.
Set. Reduced from $15 to $10.

The Palais Royal, G St., 11th St. A. LISNER.

DR. KUMLER IS DEAD

Former Pittsburg Divine Succumbs to Long Illness.

IN WASHINGTON EIGHT YEARS

Preached for Forty-five Years in Ohio, Indiana, and Pennsylvania Churches—Came to the Capital After He Had Retired in 1901. Was Always Ready to Help.

Rev. Jeremiah P. E. Kumler, D. D., died at an early hour yesterday morning at the family apartments in Florence Court.

The end was not unexpected to members of his family and his friends, as he had been in feeble health for months. Although in his seventy-ninth year, Dr. Kumler had retained up to the last few years the vigor and vitality which marked a long and laborious life. After an active service of forty-five years in the ministry of the Presbyterian Church he retired in 1901 and came to this city, where he made his home.

He was seventy years of age when he gave up past as pastor of one of the largest churches in Pittsburg, the East Liberty Presbyterian Church. After he moved to this city he was connected with the congregation of the Church of the Covenant, and he held himself ready to respond